TICKETS FOR DOWNTOWN HOLLAND'S ANNUAL UP ON THE ROOFTOPS HOLIDAY EVENT ON SALE NOW

HOLLAND, MI — Tickets for Downtown Holland's highly anticipated Up On The Rooftops holiday event are now on sale. A limited number of tickets are available for this sell-out event, both online at www.upontherooftops.com and at the Downtown Holland offices at 44 West Ninth Street during normal business hours. Up On The Rooftops will take place on Friday, December 12 from 6:00 pm – 9:30 pm. The event is proudly sponsored by Downtown Holland's own GDK Construction and Geenen DeKock Properties.

“GDK Construction and Geenen DeKock Properties are pleased to be able to sponsor the Up On The Rooftops event again this year,” said Douglas DeKock, owner and partner at GDK Construction and Geenen DeKock Properties. “It is always a great event where people have the opportunity to see some of the unique private spaces Downtown that are not generally open to the public. Downtown Holland is so important to the greater Holland community and this is our time to show it off.”

During Up On The Rooftops, ticket holders are invited to tour rarely seen residences and businesses on the upper floors of Downtown Holland's historic buildings. The $20 ticket price also includes a reception in the lobby of the beautiful Fifth Third Bank on Eighth Street where desserts and refreshments will be served. Up On The Rooftops is a self-guided tour and there is a significant amount of walking required. Comfortable shoes and warm clothing are highly recommended.

This year's tour locations include residences above 8th Street Grille, Kilwin's, Michigan Pantry, RIT Music and the Windmill Restaurant. The offices on the tour include the Holland Sentinel, Lorence and VanderZwart and Lumir, located above Home & Company. The office of Downtown newcomers TPK, located above West Michigan Cycle, will also be featured on the tour, along with Centennial Park Studios, home to artists Joel Tanis, Barry Elz and Amy Hagood.

There will be two dessert receptions held at Fifth Third Bank. When purchasing tickets, patrons can select whether they wish to attend the early reception from 6:30 pm -7:30 pm prior to taking the tour, or the late reception from 8:30 pm – 9:30 pm after they have gone on the tour. The locations on the tour will remain open from 6:00 pm – 9:30 pm to accommodate all ticket-holders, regardless of their selected reception time.
